SAVOYARD, tha well-posted Louisville Times' staff correspondent, after a careful survey of the gubernatoriat field, finds that Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner's chances to occupy the executive chair are not near so hright as formerly. The fact is the people want a practical man for governor, having found to their sorrow that voting for a man because of some sentiment, yeilow feyer record orgenvice to the confederate states, wont do by a jugful. Gen. Buckner may be a capital man for the piace, but he has no record of being a man of affairs and business training, and that mey militate against him with those who look at the metter strictly from a common sense viaw. We have tried doctors, lawyers and so on, without gatting axactly what we want. How will it do to try a fermer next time. Senator John D. Harrie, of Madisco, for instance?

WE regret to observe that two esteemed journelists of Louisville have been fighting. William M Hnil, an editoriei writer on the Times, becoming exasperated at a very damaging charge against his characttor by Judge W. M. Finley in the Post, went to the latter's office and inquired if he was reapensible for the paragraph. Finley replied in the affirmetive and then Hull rerejoined with his fiete. A few blows passed, when byetanders parted the beligerents. between Louisvilla editors within a year. It is setting a had example to the rural roceters, though it mey be said to their chedit that they stick to first principles and meet. use their fists instead of more dangerous weapons.

THE New York Herald figures that there are "136 Carliele democrate in the House to 32 Randail democrate on the question of teriff reform." There is only a single democrat elected from the South who voted against the consideration of the Morrison tariff bill last June, so it may be assumed that with the exception of the labor deniocrat from Virginia end two or three membere from Louisiana the Southern membere are for tariff reform. The protective tariff democrate in the South may number five. With the 32 protection democrate ailed with the republicans, the same paper thinks that they will try to prevent a consideration of the tariff queetion at ali.

The gallant Lord deserted her some weeks 2go, after discovering that open liasons are not calculated to win epplause and ducate in America,

THE Louisville Times expresses tersely the sehtiments of a good many of us as foilowe: The Breckinridge News thinks the Times is about to join the cold-water army and apprort the prohibition movement, and that reminds us of the reply of a witness in the Beecher-Tilton trial, who, when asked what religion he professed, said: "I am a Spiritualist, but I am not a d-n fool," The Times believee in sohriety and morality, hut it has pienty of common sense as well, and has no notion of hringing the millenium upon a people hy statue before they are properly prepared for the occasion.

THE Knights of Labor have made an other eignal failnre in their efforts to enforce their damands by strikes. Powderly has ordered the packers and butchers at Chicago to go back to work at ten hours a day, saying that the strike was ili advised as the times are not ripe for the eight-hour movement. The men have lost several weeks' time and have gained no single point. After awhile, perhaps, lahor organizations will find that others have some rights as well as they, and will dare main-

WALL STREET'S "PUTS," "CALLS," "SPREADS" AND "STRADDLES."

Mr. Russell Sage the Inventor of These Ingenious Speculative Devices-A Confidential Clerk Explains Them to an Inquiring Novice.

Mr. Russell Sage was the pioneer who invented "puts," "calis," "spreads" and "strad-dien." He began dealing in them when he first came to Wall street in 1801, after his withdrawal from congress, and he has been dealing in them ever since; and the stock markets of the world have taken up this ingenlous speculative device of Mr. Sage's, and stock privileges are just as well known on the continental bourses to-day and iu the London market as they are here, and they are largely dealt in. Perhaps not so largely as here, because the device is American and an outcome of American genius, but transcontinental speculators could not fail to see the advantages they offered and have perforce adopted them. London declares that the nomenclature, so far as "spreads" and "straddles" are concerned, is not refined, and call them differontly, but what they deal in are American stock privileges just the same.

MADE AS CLEAR AS DAY. "And what are 'puts,' 'calls,' 'spreads' and 'straddles' " asked the writer when he first went down on Wali street. "Well," said John E. McCann, the confidential clerk of Russell Sage, of whom the question was asked, "I'il tell you if you if you promise never to mention the poetical subject again. It requires pretty deft wording to make the thing clear, so it is not an exhilarating subject to talk on. You hear a good deal about 'puts' and 'calls,' but I venture to say there are 50,000,000 persons in the United States who do not know what they are, nor what the meaning is of the word 'privileges.' Now a privilege is a contract by which the maker of it, Russell Sage, S. V. Waite, Jay Gould or Harvey Keanedy, engages to purchase from the holder in the one case, or to seil to the holder in the other case, a number of shares of some specified stock, at a certain price at any time within a certain period at the option of the hoider. Got

A "CALL" EXPLAINED.

"A 'call' is a privilege bought of the ninker at a certain price, and the owner of it is urlylleged to call for a certain amount of stock at a given price, within thirty, sixty or ninety days, four or six months. If a man holds a 'put' he has the right to deliver to the maker of the privilege a stock at a certain agreed on price within a certain number of days. Clear?

No. Well, let's try once more.
"Suppose Western Union is selling at 70. A man wants o 1747 day 'put' on it at 66, because he believes is stock is going down. He gives Mr. Sage, Mr. Vilite, Mr. Kennedy or Mr. Gould I per cent, on the amount of stock he wants to deal in. A immdred shares is usual, and 1 per cent. is $100. He receives in return a slip of paper signed by either one or the other of these gentlemen. Then if West-ern Union goes below 60 within sixty days, he may buy it for whatever it is seiling for below that price and 'put' it to the maker of the privilege at the price agreed on, 66, and receive a check for $6,600. The holder makes the difference. An, you understand. If telegraph does not go below 66 the holder is out bis $100. The 'eall' business operates exactly in the opposite way. A man buys the privilege of calling Western Union at 75 when it is selling at 70. If it sells above 75. you can call on the maker of the privilege for 100 shares at 75, and the 100 shares are thus bought by the holder for $7,500, and he turns around and sells it at 80, if the stock is selling there, and pockets the difference."

"SPREADS" AND "STRANDLES." "What about 'spreads' and 'straddles?"

"A 'straddle' is a 'put' and 'cail' combined. The holder of one may 'put' stock to the maker of the privilege or 'call' for it. 'Straddles' come high, because there is money in them whichever way the market may go. the market does not go all, but stands still, why, the maker is in the money he has been paid for the privilege, usually about 3 per cent., or $300. A 'spread' is also a 'put' and and a 'call' combined, but there is this difference, a 'straddle' is made at the market. That is to say, the maker of the privilege takes the risk that the stock in question does not move to any extent from the price at whileb it is selling when the privilege is sold. In a 'spread' the maker has more feeway. If Western Union is seiling at 70, to go back to the old illustration, the maker of the priviiego sells a 'spread,' say at 67 and 80. If it goes below 67, the holder can 'put' the stock and make the difference, and if it goes above 80, the bolder can 'cail' it at that price and reap the profits. But so long as the price of the stock keeps within those points the maker of the privilege is safe. To put it in another way, the holder of a 'straidle' will make if the market for the stock he is dealing in moves at ali. The holder of a 'spread' doesn't make anything until the market moves past certain limits. There is one thing more, the maker of a privilege only receives the money for which he sells the privilege, while the bolder may make thousands-or nothing. -New York Mail and Express.

Streets of the Prench Capital. The streets of Paris are the best in the world. and its boulevardalined with trees and having sidewalks 20 feet wide run for miles in different directions through the various parts of The pavements of the sidewalks are generally smooth flagstones, and that of the roadway asphalt, wood or stone blocks eveniy iaid and free from holes. The streets are kept scrupulously clean. They are washed every morning with a hose, and swept so well that one might drop a handkerchief and pick it up without soiling it. The smoothness of the streets takes away the noise found in the chief thoroughfares of New York or London. The 15,000 cabs and numberless other vehicles gilde silently over the smooth roads, and an ordiuary conversational tone can be pleasurably used upon the promenade.—Frank J. Carpen-

The Sale of Lincoln's Photographs. The sale of President Lincoln's picture remains steady, and dealers are never without it. It is not a generally known fact that there is lint one negative of President Lincoin in existence. This negative, which was taken by Brady, of Washington, is broken into two parts, the break having occured just above thoshoulder and extending almost perpendicular, inclining a little to the right, the longer way of the plate. Unless the picture is exannined very closely, however, it would not be guessed that it was printed from a broken plate, -New York Commercial Advertiser.

STANDING ON THEIR TIPTOES.

What a lianscuse Says of It-Not a Diffi-

A Cincinnati ballet girl expert gives some testimony from one of his friends, a danseuse, who says: "I walk upon my toes just as easy as you do upon the soles of your feet."
"Is not the shoe made extra stiff, or, as some suppose, do you not brace it at the point?" queried the scribe.
"Not at ali," replied the little Vivian, smiling, and immediately she pulied off her shoe and presented it to the newsman

And what a shoe it was! A butter boat lamp would answer almost as well; but still when upon the lady's foot it was anything but unshapely. "The strength is neither in the shoe nor the toes," continued the lady, as the scribe handled the little pink foot casing again and again; "it is in the ankles. One must practice for months before they can go on their 'points;' but the ankle and not the toes is the part to be strengthened."

Yielding, then, to the curiosity of years, the reporter asked, and quite timidly: "Might I be permitted to see your foot!"
"Cortainly," replied the premiere, "why not!" and directly it was in his hand.

"The public have queer notions of we people of the stage, I have no doubt," said the dancer, "lut the idea that a bailet dancer's feet are corned and bunioned or knocked out of joint is all a mistake, as you will see by mine. Here, iet me stand upon my toes."

And jumping lightly upon a table, the lively Vivian twiried upon the toes of her left foot as lightly indeed as a hutterfly upon a "The public does not know just where the ardship comes in," replied the, laughing. "The toes, you will see, do not bend, and I am right upon the tips. Nor are my feet hruised or battered; but, ohl the iong years of toll and the weary hours of practice. ally one begins at 6 or 7 years of age, and goes on until 16 or 17 before a debut is made, and even then the practice must be kept up. It is not to harden the toes, but to strengtheu the muscles and make supple the limbs. We must go even now every day to the theatre, and for hours it is a ceaseiess up and downnow on the 'points' and now whirling about, so that the limbs may not grow stlff."-Cincinnatl Commercial Gazette.

Small Feet of Southern Women.

A lady of medium hight may have a finely shaped foot such as common rumor gives to Mrs. Cieveland, but in the south a No. 314 silpper is not usually designated as dainty. Probably 21/2 is as large as the term will stand. People who frequent southern balirooms and summer resorts comment upon the fact that extremely small feet, feet incased in slippers running from I to 214 are iargely in the majority. Not many years since this subject was discussed in a ball room in Macon and experts were able to discover out of eighteen pairs present and twinking in the mazes of the dance but three numbers larger than 214, and in the assembly were damsels who would have tipped the beam at 185. This preponderance of small feet in the south among ladies of high social standing has been accounted for on many theories, the most natural one, we think, being the explanation that these ladies do not use their feet with the freedom and constancy that may be observed in other sections. They are not walkers, in the first place. It is a rare thing to find in southern cities ladies of the class described who average two miles walking per day the year round. Climate and roadways, as well as custom, are against pedestrian exercise; the feet are small beoanse they are not fully developed by use. Of course, we squak in a general sense, because, there are families in which smail feet are clearly an inheritance and continue small despite exercise continuous and severe .- Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

Salt for Cleaning Tobacco Pipes. A Ceitle friend of mine, who pos-esses more than the average hopefulness of his sanguine race, met me on Chestnut street with a smile as broad as a full moon. "Me fortune's made, me bye," sald he. "I haven't it quite in me fist yet, but it as sure as death and the tax inteman." When pressed to reveal what extraordinary good luck had befailen him, my friend drew up into the shadew of the Girard house. and after looking carefully about him. breathed into my expectant car the word "Salt!" I waited for a further explanation, and it came after my friend ind observed, of course, that his startling announcement had had time to make the proper impression. 'I haven't it patented yet," he said "hut its surely worth it. I'il teli you what it is. While smoking my favorite ciny pipe last week I noticed that it was pretty strong and I laid it aside and bought a new one. The idea struck me that something was needed in the bottom of the pipe to absorb the oil of the tobacco, and without any idea of its worth I tried a plach of sait. Well, sir, as true as I'm Christian, that salt proved to be the very thing. It took up all the nleotine, and the olpe to-dny is as sweet as when I got it. Barring a few saity mouthfuls you get on the first whilf or two, there is nothing finer n the wurruld."-Philadelphia News.

Graveyard Geography. There have been numerous reasons given to account for the fact that the north sides of burchyards are so often devoid of graves, In the west of England there is an iden that the north side was not consecrated, but was left for a playground for the children. Then, some again say it is from the tradition that Jesus, when dying, turned his head to the south. Another reason given is that the south is the sunny side, and the side where the church door commonly is placed, and where, consequently, most people pass. The commonest reason appears to be that formerly murderers, excommunicated persons, stillborn children, etc., were wont to be buried on the north side, and some rustles say that ghosts always choose the north side for their peregrinations. There is, however, an ecclesinstical reason. The cast is God's side, where His throne is set; the west man's side, the Gallice of the Gentiles; the south, where the sun silnes in its strength, is the side of the angels and spirits; the north, the devoted region of satan and his hosts, the lair of demons and their haunt.-Chicago Tribune.

Brokers Can Box.

Howell Osborn, the son of the late "Charley" Osborn, who was for years Jay Gould's broker. and who died worth $7,000,000, is one of the best boxers on the Stock Exchange, and now that he is to retire with an income of $100,000 a year, granted bim by his mother on condition that he ienve Wali street, he may have more time to perfect himself in his favorite science, which he has studied under able prefessors. In fact, Wail street brokers hire broken down prize fighters to instruct them in the maniy art, and some of these worthies actually visit the street and give lessons to their patrons there. It is not safe for a Sixth ward rough to insult some rather dudish-looking brokers; there is danger of their letting go their right with the force of the hind limb of a displeased mule.—Cincinnati Sun.

HOW MUSIC IS MADE.

EXAMINATION OF THE MANUSCRIPTS RECEIVED BY THE PUBLISHER.

The Song "Put in Hand"-The Work of Transferring the "Copy" to Metal Pintes-The Engraving of the Title. Press Work.

"The way to cook a rabbit is to first catch a rabbit," etc., applies forcibly to the initial process of producing a musical composition in beet form, and it may be further added that manuscripts worth publishing are as hard to secure as the traditional rabbit. As all large music publishing concerns are constantly in receipt of manuscripts sent for examination and sale, it becomes necessary to inspect each composition as soon as possible, otherwise they would accumulate to such an extent that a separate examination would be next to impossible.

For this purpose is employed a thoroughly ducated and practical musician—one who no only performs at sight, but who is also master of harmony and composition. After carafully trying over each piece, and noting his opinion thereon, the result may be the selection of one or two manuscripts out of perhaps fifty, the balance being returned to their respective authors marked "rejected."

THE SONG "PUT IN HAND." We will suppose that one of the pieces recommended by the inspector is a song. The publisher now holds a manuscript which in the opinion of bis inspector is worth publishing, that is, it has some point of excellence that might result in the piece becoming popular. The next step is to read the letter sent iny the writer of the song, and if the author's demands are deemed reasonable his terms are accepted and the song is "put in hand," not, however, before the publisher bas first satisfied himself that the words are correct and suitable, and that the title is not niready l

The manuscript is theu taken by the engraver who, scated at his table, begins the work of transferring to metal plates the "copy" before him. For this purpose he employs a bannner and a multitude of small steel dies, each one of which represents a character of music, in fact everything from a hrace to a double bar, and from a grace note to a "sixtyfourth," besides rests, slurs, crescendos, and a full set of the alphabet in various sizes, such as agate, nonparell, primer, etc. Upon the feet square by two inches thick. This is the anvil (7) on which is laid the metal plate aforementioned. The initer is composed of white metai and is one-sixteenth of nn inch in thickness. The surface is highly polished and resembles burnl-hed silver. With the aid of compasses, rules and other peculiar tools, the lines, bars, etc., are iald out, after which the engraver proceeds to fill in the music and words, and thus each plate is treated until the song is finished.

THE ENGRAVING OF THE TITLE. While the music engraver is busy with his manuscript and dies, the title engraver is not By a process exactly similar to bank note or steel engraving this individual prepares the title, which, as an obvious necessity, must be entirely original in design, both in lettering and ornamentation. The metal plates used for titles are the same as those used for

The umsic plates and title being finished, proofs are taken from them and submitted to the music inspector, who carefully examines each page and makes the necessary corrections, after which they are returned to the engraver. The latter in fividual having mad the designated changes or additions, passes the plates to the superintendent of the press room, where they are in turn given to a uress

The press used is the same as employed in steei plate printing, and can therefore only be worked by hand. This process is neces sarliy slow and tedious, but it is the only method by which first class sheet music can be made. After the music is printed the music sheets, which are still wet, are hung upon racks to dry. The drying process consumes about two or three hours, when they are taken down, folded and put in a press, where they are usually left over night. In the morning they are taken out and we have before us a pile of elegant plate music, "the iatest song of the season." "Piate" editions will always be preferred by all who apprecrate music that can be easily read; in fact, to 'hose accustomed to plate work "type music" wenns like no music. - Musicai Journal

Mr. Van liuren and the Oysters. Gen. Eaton invited one evening Jackson, Van Buren, the French minister, Gen. Cass and several other gentlemen to come round and assist in disposing of a barrel of oysters just sent him from Norfolk. A few moments after the mrival of the distinguished party the butler unnounced that the oysters were ready. Mrs. Enton led the way escorted by Mr. Van Buren, and as he approached the kitchen door he exclaimed: "Good henvens! madam, where are you going to takes us?" "Into the kitchen, of course." replied Mrs.

Eaton cheerfully. Mrs. Eaton was a model bousewife in her day, taking as much pride in her kitchen as , In her parlor, and as she threw open the door a novel sight presented itself. The floor was as white as soap and water could make it and covered with fine white sand. The tables looked like boxwood, and the tins were as bright as inirrors. Added to this the appetizing odor of oysters roasted in the shell, the novelty of the oceasion, and the sprightly beauty of the hostess, one would suppose that even Mr. Van Buren might melt into a state of pleasantry. But on the contrary, his features reflected only his inability to enjoy a frolle of this kind, and he sat uprightly und unsmiling until toward the end of the lmpromptu fete, when he turned toward Mrs. Eaton and said: "This is the first meal of the kind, served in like manner, I bave over indulged in, but I trust it will not be the inst. I think oysters never had such a delicious taste before. - Ben: Pericy Poore in Boston Hudget.

When Doctors Disagree. I am in despair. Wisbing to be healthy as long as I live, I have been following Mr. Gladstone's example, and laboriously hiting every mouthful of meat twenty-five times before swallowing it. This, it seems, has been iabor lost, for I now read a letter in The Times from a sage explaining that meat "is digested by the stomach julces, not hy the mouth juices, and does not need twenty-five bltes, or even any bites at ail," because its digestive fluid is acid, whereas the secretions of the mouth are alkaline, and neutralize the di-gestion of flesh food.—London Truth.

Circumventing Caterpiliars. A thing with which they circumvent cater-pillars in Boston and New York parks is a belt of iron with a circular trough containing kerosene. The iron band fits around the trunk of the tree, and when climbing the caterpillar nttempts to pass the trough of oil It is overcome by the fumes, and falls back dead. - New York Letter.

I've semething to sev ante yau. And all of the words that I utter Shall be very houset and true. I heard you inquire at the village

I've followed that I might direct you Upon a safe route that I found. And to warn you, my boys, of the hy-paths; For some of them run under the ground. One leads to the laft o'er a vellay. Upon it I pray you don't go;

For the valtures soar over the hollow, And careass scents come from below. Another runs close to the highway,

With glames of liquor to greet you, And drinks that will dissipate sighs. His home is infested with reptiles That hise while you're entering in, Beware-on the door is a pla-card, And it spells but two words-"Gen, bling Den.

And many temptations and vices. My pen would abhor here to touch, Will emile in their gaudy apperel-Bowere of the polson-oak's clutch. Eo Jeurney straight forward, my boys, The sunshine's a brave, trusty guide, And it may be that all through your journey This warm triend will waik at your side.

But if derkness should overtake you, And the hill become stony end steep, A pray'r will make downy your pillow Like Jecob'r, as sweet he your sicep. The morning will shake from its pinions Eweet dew on your slumbering oyes, And song birds will greet your ewaking. And engels look down from the skies.

The road that was dusty and lonesome Will land under orches of trees, And, tike e sweet word in the memory, A flower-breath come on the breeze. Broad fields will edvance, end the hervest Will ripen as il for your view, And rivers so coim la their winding You'll lose in the horizon's blue.

So journey straight lorward, my boys, This route in the uplands will leed. Let courage edvance with the banver When you've on the motto sgreet. A eignel of cheer will pursue thee, And, countenenced like an old friend, A figure will wave from the valley As over the hill-lop you wend.
